URBAN ART

What's unique?

Artists are offered opportunities to exhibit their work throughout Dallas, from galleries, to shows and public venues. Artists are rarely compensated for their expenses with the potential to win substantial cash awards for their work without selling the piece. This event is a unique collaboration between the business community and artists where all the stakeholders prosper. H.A.P. is an experiment to democratize art; it is a creative collision between social media and classic art. The Henderson Art Project endeavors to engage the public by giving a face to the artists and participating in the process of rewarding those creative people who are enhancing the public spaces. The underwriters and sponsors of this event are true visionaries that recognize the value of supporting the artists. This level of participation in creative expression, and public artistic dialogue, builds strong vibrant communities. Henderson Avenue, the city of Dallas, and the art community all benefit from this project: When the artists thrive, the community benefits.
